

Convocatoria "Política, Revista de Ciencia Política"

(número 2, Diciembre 2024)

Política, Revista de Ciencia Política is a biannual publication from the School of Government at the Universidad de Chile since 1982. Its objective is to disseminate research generated in the main currents of political science, aiming toward the consolidation of this discipline in Chile and Latin America. This is a peer-reviewed open-access journal with no article publication fees.

The journal's 2024 Number 2 will be published in December 2024. It will address issues related to Unconfigured Democracy: cases from Latin America and Europe. Manuscripts are sought to address diverse realities that affect the political system such as populism, anti-partyism and institutional crises. This issue will be co-edited with the Academic of the Università degli Studi di Bergamo, Italy, Manuel Anselmi, expert in populism and political ideology in Europe and Latin America. Articles and other relevant themes for political science, public policies and social science are also welcome for the journal's permanent call. Articles must be submitted through the platform on the journal's website: <https://revistapolitica.uchile.cl/> following its editorial guidelines, with a maximum length of 8,000 words. All papers will undergo a double-blind review process. Original articles are welcome in Spanish, English, and Portuguese. Accepted articles will be published in the second issue of December 2024. Article submissions for this issue will be received until September 15, 2024.
